**PRESS RELEASE** SFMTA Announces the 4th Annual Muni Heritage Weekend

A celebration of San Francisco transit dating back to the 19th century

Who: SFMTA and historic preservation partner Market Street Railway

When: Saturday & Sunday, September 26-27, 2015, 10 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Where: Market Street Railway Museum

77 Steuart Street San Francisco, CA

The San Francisco Municipal Transportation Agency (SFMTA), which operates the Municipal Railway (Muni), is inviting the public to join us on a nostalgic trip into San Francisco's public transit past. Riders of today will be placed into the seats of yesteryear. Vintage motor, trolley buses, and trains, some that welcomed visitors during the Panama-Pacific International Exposition of 1915, will once again start their engines and transport revelers for this Fourth Annual Muni Heritage Weekend. This year the vintage buses will perform double duty as "galleries on wheels." When passengers board, they will step into the past viewing historic photos from the SFMTA archives, some of which have never before been seen publicly. Festivities kick-off Saturday, September 26 through Sunday September 27.

The center of activity will be the San Francisco Railway Museum, which is operated by Market Street Railway, the non-profit historic preservation partner that supports SFMTA in its operation of its historic vehicle fleet. Market Street Railway will have special displays and memorabilia and rare book sales for transit and San Francisco history aficionados.

Explore Muni's History and Exciting Future

Exhibits on Muni's history and future will be on display from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. at Steuart Street and Don Chee Way, across from the Market Street Railway Museum. View historic photos, vehicles, and find out about the projects and vehicles that will carry Muni into the future.

Market Street Railway Museum

The San Francisco Railway Museum, can be accessed via the Steuart Street F Line stop, the E Line Ferry Building stop and is one block from the California Street cable car terminal. Visitors can take advantage of special sales of transit books and memorabilia.

Proceeds will help to fund Market Street Railway and their ongoing historic vehicle preservation efforts. Visitors of the free museum can also see an exhibit on the Historic Trolley Festivals of the 1980s that gave birth to the F Line.

Historic Vehicles that will be Available for Rides or Display

Streetcars

Five historic streetcars rarely in operation will run between the Ferry Building and Pier 39. Ride Streetcars No. 1, 130, 228, 496 and 578 for free along the short Embarcadero route. For some trips, Streetcars No. 1 and 130 may run the full F Market & Wharves route.

A number of historic streetcars are in service on the E Embarcadero and F Market & Wharves lines. Riders may board at F Line stops between Jones & Beach and 17th & Castro. Regular fares apply.

Streetcar No. 1: Muni's very first streetcar, which inaugurated Muni service on December 28, 1912. Streetcar No. 1 wears Muni's first paint scheme of gray and red, with gold trim.

Streetcar No. 130: This streetcar was part of an order for 125 cars to expand Muni service for the 1914 Panama-Pacific International Exposition. This historic streetcar is dedicated to the late Herb Caen.

Streetcar No. 496: This Melbourne car went into service in 1928 and was purchased by Muni in 1984. This car has been cosmetically restored, made wheelchair-accessible and given a GPS system. Aside from these upgrades, 496 has remained true to how it operated on the streets of Melbourne for 56 years.

Streetcar No. 228: The boat tram from Blackpool, England was one of twelve built for the English seaside resort city in 1934. This was the second boat tram acquired by Muni with the help of Market Street Railway members in 1984.

Streetcar No. 578: This 1896 streetcar is the oldest streetcar operated by a North American transit agency. Converted to a work car after the 1906 earthquake and restored by Muni crafts workers to its passenger configuration and original yellow livery in 1956 as part of the city's commemoration of the 50th anniversary of the earthquake. No. 578 will operate between the San Francisco Railway Museum and Pier 39 along The Embarcadero.

Cable Cars

Cable Car No. 42 is a special double-end cable car built in 1906. It served the O'Farrell, Jones & Hyde line until that route was discontinued in 1954. Catch it on the California Street Cable Car Line. Regular cable car fares apply.

Buses

Several historic buses are running a loop on Market to Sutter, Sutter to Mason and Mason back to Market. Riders may board in front of the San Francisco Railway Museum on Steuart Street between Market and Mission streets. No fares – you can ride the historic buses for free.

Bus No. 776: A 1950 Marmon-Herrington trolley coach, which served virtually all of Muni's trolley bus lines during its quarter-century of service. It is painted in its original green and cream "Wings" livery.

Bus No. 3287: Built by General Motors, purchased by Muni in 1969, and restored to its original maroon and yellow livery inspired by the cable cars.

Bus No. 5300: A 1975 Flyer trolley coach painted in the white and two-tone orange paint scheme created for Muni by famed San Francisco industrial designer Walter Landor, who also created Muni's current logo, known to many as "the worm".

The vintage buses will leave from the San Francisco Railway Museum on Steuart Street between Market and Mission streets, across from the Ferry Building. They will follow a circle route that loops around the Union Square area: outbound via Market, Sutter and Mason back to Market, returning inbound via Market, Spear, and Mission to Steuart.

###

Established by voter proposition in 1999, the SFMTA, a department of the City and County of San Francisco, oversees the Municipal Railway (Muni), parking and traffic, bicycling, walking and taxis. With five modes of transit, Muni has approximately 700,000 passenger boardings each day. Over 1 million people get around this city each day and rely on the SFMTA to ensure safe and reliable travel by transit, walking, bicycling, taxi and driving.
